THE 1962
MILESTONES

THE IRIS

WARD SEMINARY CLASS 1902.

Last fall as the annual staff leafed through a yellowed Ward's Seminary yearbook, The Iris, the idea for the MILESTONES of '62 was born. The staff quickly slipped from the jet age back to the year 1865. To an era of carriages rattling over cobblestone streets; to a time of laughing girls, in high-necked shirtwaists and sweeping skirts, who played and studied for the first time in a brick building on old North Spruce Street. The Civil War had ended, but Yankee soldiers still occupied Nashville and controlled the destiny of its 15,000 citizens.

The year 1865 leading up to the November opening of Ward's was one of heartbreaking headlines! April 3, RICHMOND FALLS TO UNION TROOPS . . . April 9, LEE SURRENDERS TO GRANT AT APPOMATTOX . . . April 14, ABRAHAM LINCOLN ASSASSINATED. . May 10, JEFFERSON DAVIS CAPTURED BY UNION CAVALRY . . . May 26, GEN. E. KIRBY SMITH SURRENDERS LAST CONFEDERATE TROOPS . . . June 2, GEN. GRANT ANNOUNCES END OF WAR. Small wonder that few noticed the November item that marked the planting of the first milestone on the road to Harpeth Hall—DR. J. F. WARD ANNOUNCES THE OPENING OF WARD'S SEMINARY.

The MILESTONES staff can't share with you the excitement of pouring over Ward Seminary annuals at the State Library, of searching for material on Belmont College and Ward-Belmont, of photographing faded pictures, and of working frantically to sell enough ads to reproduce even a fraction of the material culled from the milestones marking the road to Harpeth Hall. But we hope that the MILESTONES of '62 will evoke in each Harpeth Hall student a new appreciation for the rich heritage of her school.

HARPETH HALL

Carriages clattering on the streets of old Nashville often stopped at 143 North Spruce Street to deposit Southern daughters at Ward Seminary for Young Ladies.

With the homes of Nashville in the background, Ward's basketball team in their bloomers and middie blouses practiced in the late afternoon.

WARD PLACE CLUB

One of the 137 holidays that Ward girls enjoyed was Halloween. These girls with their big paper bags, mustaches, and cigars must be trying their hands at tricks and treats.

In the spring a young Ward girl's fancy lightly turned to thoughts of excursions to the country, picnics, and clover chains.

IRIS STAFF AFTER

Imagine having 54 school days in which to put together an annual! No wonder this IRIS staff is worn out after the annual has finally gone to press.

TENNIS CLUB

Ward girls such as these members of the tennis club laid the foundation for our exceptional tennis record through the years.

This "Basket of 'American Beauties'" is a group of Ward seniors in the flower parade May 10, 1900.

"A BASKET OF 'AMERICAN BEAUTIES'"

This Ward Seminary basketball varsity of 1907 was probably one of the very few girls' teams in the country.

The formal gardens of the old Acklen estate were a beautiful setting for Ward Belmont.

The ivy entwined columns of the ballroom of Ward Belmont lent a touch of the Old South to the Senior Middle dance of 1939.

The Ward Belmont Senior Preps gave a preview of their graduation dresses as they marched in the May Day procession.

Much of the beauty and pageantry of May Day at Ward Belmont has been transmitted to the festivities surrounding the Lady of the Hall.

The beauty and spaciousness of the campus of Harpeth Hall is accentuated in this aerial view given the MILESTONES by the B.G.A. CANNON BALL staff.

The Harpeth Hall Tea Dance, sponsored by the Student Council, captured the festive spirit of the Christmas season.

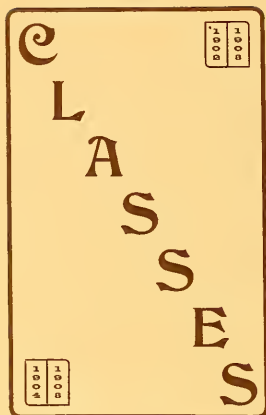

Any girl wishing information concerning college entrance tests or aid in her choice of colleges finds Miss Penny ready to assist her.

A familiar scene around the school is the library where Mrs. Marshall helps students choose and check out books.

*"Learning by study must be won;
'Twas ne'er entailed from sire to son."*—Gay

"Half the secret of getting along with people is consideration of their views; the other half is tolerance in one's own views."

—Daniel Frohman

"If you want to know if your brain is flabby feel of your legs."—Bruce Barton

"The mind ought sometimes to be diverted, that it may return the better to thinking."

MRS. SOUBY, HEADMISTRESS

In the tradition of Miss Annie Allison, first headmistress of Ward-Belmont, Mrs. Souby links Ward-Belmont and Harpeth Hall by preserving the best of past traditions and striving for the best in the present. With quiet authority and genuine interest, she has been instrumental in establishing Harpeth Hall as a respected and well known girls preparatory school. Her dignity and warmth personify the ideals of a true lady, whose influence reaches far into the future.

DEDICATED TO MRS. EGGLESTON

Through genuine love and deep understanding of the best in the field of history, she has created for her pupils a new and animate world. With her warm smile and friendly manner, she has spanned the two worlds of past and present with the bridge of knowledge. And so with appreciation, Mrs. Eggleston, the MILESTONES of 1962 is traditionally yours.

CLASS EVOLUTION

The New Arrival

A Year Later

Miss Junior

Miss Senior

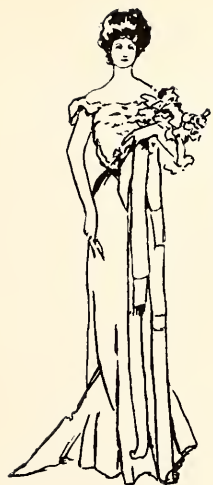

From Ward's Seminary to Harpeth Hall, the road stretches across an expanse of change. But Dr. Ward's principle of maintaining high academic standards and of stressing moral character is still being upheld in our school. Ward's offered "a full and thorough course of instruction, embracing academic and collegiate work." Gas lights burned late as students poured over books—English literature, French, Latin, Greek, moral philosophy, art criticism, elocution, and penmanship.

The MILESTONES' staff read with envy that Ward's opened in November and closed in May—a term dotted with holidays when Ward girls shed their maroon or buff colored uniforms for hoop skirts and merrymaking! Imagine a school year of 52 scholastic days! But the staff felt at home to find that Ward's students never chewed gum, always cultivated perfect manners, and treated their teachers with respect and courtesy. By 1890 they were competing in these respects with students of the newly opened Belmont College, housed in the Belmont mansion on the 200 acre Acklen estate.

Pictured at the right is a Belmont class and its instructor. The building behind them was originally a two story bear house, part of the Belmont Estate zoo. This octagonal building was designed by the Italian architect who designed the Belmont mansion, which was said to be unsurpassed by any other in the South. Later owners of the estate thought the bear house of such architectural beauty that they used it for a tea house. It had various uses up into Ward-Belmont days.

ORGANIZATIONS

Scattered along the road between Ward's and Harpeth Hall, stand the milestones for most of the organizations on our campus. Ward Seminary students formed State Clubs, and each state represented received two pages in the yearbook THE IRIS. The girls also belonged to Greek letter sororities with mysterious rituals. The Ward's Art Club was represented by crayon sketches and water colors in the art exhibition at the Nashville Centennial in 1890.

At Ward-Belmont sororities gave way to a number of social clubs that included the entire study body. Ward-Belmont girls spent much time in Club Village which had club houses patterned after Marie Antoinette's play houses. Members of each club had their own club house in which to entertain at teas and informal dances. Among these clubs were the Angkor, Ariston, Eccowasin and Triad of Harpeth Hall fame. Among other Harpeth Hall organizations linked to Ward-Belmont are Pen-staff, the Honor Society, and MILESTONES. (See Iris staff in opening section.)

The staff chose the picture on the opposite page not because it depicts an organization, but rather because it captures a bit of the atmosphere of Belmont College. These girls are standing on the steps of the south entrance to the ante-bellum mansion Belmont. In its spacious reception rooms, students sat sedately on red velvet upholstery as presidents called meetings to order.

S P O R T S

She becomes athletic.

The road joining the age of white middy-blouses and black bloomers and that of the white shirts and shorts of Harpeth Hall may seem a long one; but Ward's motto "Mens Sana in Copore Sana" shows that athletics were an important part of the development of a Ward student. "A sound mind in a sound body" is still the goal of Harpeth Hall today.

At first Ward's program of "physical culture" concentrated on dancing and calisthenics, involving wands and dumbbells. But as more active sports became proper for young ladies, Ward Seminary offered bowling, roller-skating, box-ball, cross country riding, golf, tennis and swimming. Ward's had the first girls' basketball team in the South and one of the first in the nation.

Pictured on the right is a group of Belmont College girls with squash rackets. They are in front of the old water tower. Belmont mansion had been one of the strategic sites used by the Union forces who occupied Nashville on February 16, 1862, after the fall of Ft. Donelson. This picturesque water tower was used by the Union forces as a signal tower and lookout post. Many years later after the 1913 merger of Ward's and Belmont, it was to house the imported carillon chimes given to Ward-Belmont by its alumnae.

Fore!

Whee! Mrs. Moran, I hit a bull's eye!

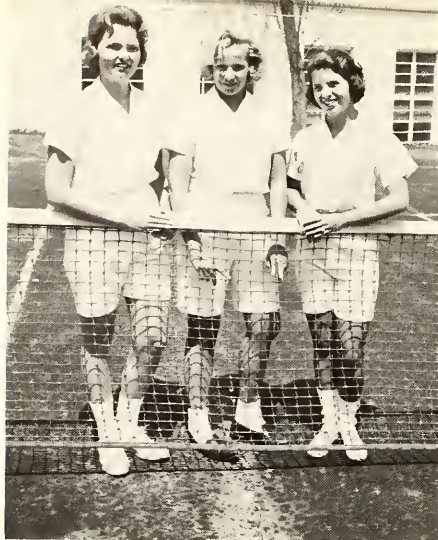

Don't stand there; do something.

This year Harpeth Hall was victorious in all interscholastic games. In volleyball, Harpeth Hall beat St. Bernard's 38 to 23 and St. Cecilia 63 to 11. During the basketball season, Harpeth Hall again played St. Bernard's and won 38 to 23; we also won the St. Cecilia game by a score of 28 to 19. Then in the spring, Harpeth Hall's tennis team held its usual place at the top of the Nashville Interscholastic League.

FEATURES

The road connecting Ward's Seminary and Harpeth Hall is star-studded with fun and achievement . . . steamboat rides, hay wagons and laughter, gay May Day dances, swirling hoop-skirts, and the excitement of graduation! But a Ward's Seminary girl did have her problems.

When the school opened in 1865, Union troops still occupied the city and would for some decades. Much lawlessness prevailed, and streets were not safe at night. The first telephones were still twelve years in the future. M.B.A. didn't open until 1867 and Vanderbilt not until 1873. Imagine! No telephone. No M.B.A. And no Vandy! Two hundred pretty Ward belles sitting on the broad galleries or the yard settees in the evening alone!

To increase a girl's problem, Ward's Seminary required that to make a formal call on a young lady, a young man had to present a letter of introduction from her parents. After these barriers a girl must have been excited to have a Sunday afternoon ride with a young man on Nashville's new McGavock and Spruce Railway of mule drawn cars, each mule sporting bells to warn prospective passengers.

The girls, however, could always look forward to their Saturday night soiree in the formal drawing rooms where they entertained each other and the faculty with musical performances and recitations. And occasionally there was an exciting event such as President Hays goodwill visit to Nashville on September 19, 1877. The President was committed to the removal of federal troops from the South, and Ward's decorated for his visit with flags, bunting, evergreens and hanging baskets of flowers. The galleries and lawn were crowded with students when the President halted his carriage in front of the school to receive a silver tray of rare flowers from a student. That evening a few of the girls attended a ball held in his honor.

The picture on the opposite page depicts a familiar scene at Belmont College. Here at the south entrance to Acklen Hall, young men left their carriages to enter and call for the young lady of their choice. Later, carriages changed to sports cars and Belmont belles to Ward-Belmont belles, but young men still entered the same door to call for pretty girls.

THESE ARE THE QUALITIES FOR

MISS AMERICA

WHAT DOES IT MEAN TO BE MISS AMERICA?

First of all, it means Miss America receives a $10,000 educational scholarship. The scholarship may be used to attend any college or university of her choice, or it may be used for private lessons or special training. If she chooses to make personal appearances, however, she may add another $75,000 to her income for the year. Miss America also receives a magnificent wardrobe of "Everglaze" clothes valued at $10,000.

The Miss America Pageant, in cooperation with her parents, looks after her business interests for her. Miss America travels over 150,000 miles during the year of her reign and when she returns to Atlantic City the following September to reign over the Pageant and crown her successor, she is without a doubt the most publicized and most envied girl in the land.

Not since 1947 has a Tennessee Girl coveted the title of Miss America. It would indeed be a glorious thing if the crown could be returned to our home state.

Our local and state pageant is a preliminary to the official Miss America Beauty Pageant.
IT COULD BE YOU.
